IMMERSION OF CREMATED ASHES

Ash scattering, commonly referred to as sea burial or immersion of cremated ashes, is a profound and meaningful method to respect a loved one's last wishes or to memorialize them in a place of significance. Dispersing the cremated remains into lakes, rivers, or oceans is a technique that is growing in popularity. It's a very personal decision that frequently reflects the person's affinity for the water or desire to get back in touch with the natural world.
